Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

ACFB provides a simple process in gaining Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) for qualifications and/or experience that you may already have. This can then reduce the price and duration of your course making it even easier to study.

All applications for RPL are considered by ACFB's Course Coordinator and NO claims for RPL will be considered unless accompanied by the relevant documentation outlined below.

What evidence do I need?

Examples of supporting evidence will include:

- Academic Transcripts and Certificates. (DO NOT send your original documents)
- Examples of any industry experience
- An up-to-date resume detailing qualifications and experience relevant to this course
- A signed letter from your manager/employer stating that you have worked previously or are currently working within this industry, including your role responsibilities.

How does the RPL process work?

Step 1

To gain RPL for a Unit of Competency or Course please complete this form and also download and complete the relevant Unit RPL form for each Unit of Competency. Once completed, please send it in with all relevant evidence to support their claim for RPL.
